HORSE AND TRACK.

What the Flyers Are Doing At Home and Abroad.

Friday was the closing day of the Versailles Fair, and the meeting was a success in every particular.

The Campbellsville Fair had an attendance of 4,000 people on Friday, where the trots attracted great attention.

Agate has at last been beaten. Trevelian, a Lexington horse, proved too much for the Californian with 2:00 1/4 mark.

Ralph Wilkes won the $2,000 purse at Rochester, N. Y., Friday in the 2:17 class, in straight heats. Time—2:12, 2:13, 2:14.

The 2:50 trot for 2-year-olds, purse $1,500, at Pure Haute, was won by Oakland in two straight heats. Time—2:23 1/2, 2:16 1/2.

Flying Dutchman, the 2-year-old runner has been sold by W. L. Simmons, of Lexington, to Pat Dunne, of Chicago, for $15,000.

Dr. Lockhart, of Ezel, will be here this week with his colts for the Fair. The Hazel Green track will be alive with horses by Saturday.

The Review $15,000 purse will be contended for September 11 at Terre Haute. Billy Parks, Bouncer and Axinite will start in the race.

There are seven or eight horses at the Fair Ground track in training for the Fair, and more than one of them have gone quarters in forty seconds.

A fine Bell Boy stallion belonging to a Mr. Thompson, of Louisville, broke away from his groom at Lexington and was killed by a moving train.

Lockey Sim, last Friday won five out of six mounts at the Jerome Park races, and got second place with his sixth horse, which was a rank outsider.

Outcast, the famous thoroughbred stallion belonging to S. Y. Keene, Georgetown, was destroyed in a burning barn at that place some ten days ago.

Trevelian won the 2:15 class at Terre Haute last week, trotting the first heat in 2:09 1/2, the third in 2:10, and the fourth in 2:09 1/2. Ora Wilkes winning the second heat in 2:11.

The Driving Club of Grand Rapids, Mich., is said to have suffered a financial loss of $3,800 during their recent meeting. Hal Pulaski won the $300 pacing race Friday. Time—2:20, 2:20, 2:20.

Alix, the great race mare, won the $3,000 Free For All trot at Terre Haute, beating Ryland T. 2:07 1/2; Belle Vava, 2:08 1/2, and others as good. Time—2:06, 2:06 1/2, which is the fastest three heats ever trotted.

Van Robin, ch. g., won the $400 purse in the 2:40 class at the Versailles Fair last Friday, going three straight heats in 2:24, 2:19 1/2, 2:20. At the same place and day the 2:20 class, purse $400, was won by Helen Leyburn. Time—2:20 1/2, 2:18 1/2, 2:19 1/2.

A Chicago exchange says: "The man who offered those many thousands of dollars for Boreal last fall apparently knew what he was doing; but, in view of latest developments, Scott Newman knew better. Boreal is probably as well bred a colt as there is in the country. His sire, Bow Belle, 2:19 1/2, is by Electioneer, out of Beautiful Bells, 2:59, dam of seven in the 2:30 list. Boreal's dam is Rosey Morn, by Alcantara, 2:23, son of George Wilkes and Alma Mater, dam of eight in the list. Rosa Morn's dam was Nootside, 2:20 1/2, by Harold, and Nootside was foaled by Midnight, the dam of Jay-Eye-See, 2:10; Nootside, 2:20 1/2, and Electricity, 2:17 1/2. A colt claiming kin to so many of the greatest brood mares should prove a great trotter himself and a great sire."

A first class 25 horse power portable saw mill complete, and, if needed, a good corn mill, all in complete order. Price and terms reasonable. For particulars address Maytown Mill Co., Maytown, Ky.

RAM'S HORN RELIGION.

Genius is a curse unless it loves truth.

It takes hard times to make some people thankful.

They can do the best work who know best how to rest.

A stony heart and an iron will are a bad combination.

Some men seem to have been made out of dust that had gravel in it.

When the devil fishes for an idler he catches him with a bare hook.

There isn't much difference between a devil and a bad man educated.

The man who can smile and won't do it cheats others and robs himself.

The poor have a thousand joys that the money of the rich cannot purchase.

The sin we are slowest to forgive is often the one we are most apt to commit.

The worst pit of misfortune into which a man can fall is the one he digs himself.

It is doubtful if culture will ever be able to make a man stop snoring in his sleep.

Since the day Moody said, "I am working for God," he has always had plenty to eat in the house.

There is a power in the cry of a penitent sinner that all the wisdom of the world cannot overthrow.

The devil was more anxious to destroy Job's influence for good than he was to destroy his property.

When the devil wants to do an extraordinary day's work he sometimes puts on a preacher's coat and hat.

As long as there is a poor man in the world, the money of a rich man will show what he thinks of Christ.

The man who looks through prejudice is always ready to swear that there is something green in sunlight.

God never calls anybody to a work that can be done with head and hands without any help from the heart.

No church is ever made a bit stronger by having an unrepentant sinner with a pocket full of money walk up and join it.

The first business of the preacher, according to Paul, ought to be to tell the world what God thinks and says about things.

It would be a long time before the devil would get discouraged, if none were preachers except the who wear long-tailed coats.

As much preaching had been said at the heart as there has been at the head, the millennium would have dawned long ago.

St. Paul was a preacher who never used an whitewash, and when he described sin everybody in the congregation knew what he was talking about.

When angels see church pillars on their way to the parsonage with wormy hams and crooked wood, they are probably puzzled to understand why God holds the judgment back.

FROM CAMPTON.

One of Our Foreign Correspondents Favours Us With a Letter.

As it seems like your correspondents of this place have dropped off and passed away into oblivion, I will give you a few items, as I always like to read the interesting columns of THE HERALD. When I desire things contained in the columns of our only county paper, and, lo, find it. The appreciation and interest taken in it by the good people are unimaginable. Like "old time religion" it is good enough, not only for me, but for all.

The all-wise, immutable One has greatly blessed the farmers of this section with a good refreshing rain, and it looks like that circumstances will, at last, crown their efforts with prosperity and plenty, and let sunshine and peace reign supremely in their hearts.

The Republicans met in mass convention at the court house Saturday and appointed delegates to attend the district convention to be held at West Liberty the 23rd for the purpose of nominating a man for Congress to fill out the unexpired term caused by the death of Hon. M. C. Lisle. In the time of it handsome speeches were made by Z. T. Harat, Dr. Wiley Steele and Benj. Sewell. Our young friend Sewell in his speech said: "Would it not be well to have the spirit of demagogism, fanaticism and sectionalism wiped out of existence, and let the true spirit of statesmanship, patriotism and Americanism enter the halls of legislation?" We think it would, but we fear it would break into the ranks of the Republican party as well as into the party (?) to which he was referring.

Mrs. J. N. Vaughan and family, who have been visiting relatives in Montgomery and Menefee counties for two weeks, returned home Monday. Mrs. Vaughan was well pleased with her visit after she arrived and found the "store" at home.

Rev. Thomas preached an able sermon to the people here Sunday. A colored brother preached in the court house in the evening, advocating the theory that it takes "Grit, grace and greenback" to run religion. No one can depict the unsearchable riches and trample beneath his feet the great theocracy of God.

Benj. Sewell, who is teaching the Spring branch school on Holly, was seen in our town Saturday and Sunday, and says he likes the town splendid. Ben has been taking much delight in searching the fields of oratory, but if he judge right by his actions, which speak louder than words, we believe that he has come to the conclusion now that it suits him better to explore the perennial fields of love. He likes to have his sport; is an excellent hunter and has been having remarkable success in catching birds in traps, but we are of the opinion that he will have to devise some other plan to catch that one he seems to be working after now.

All eyes are turned toward the Hazel Green fair, which is booming and promises to be a success in every particular. Look out, we are coming!

The school teachers' institute of this county will begin the 27th of this month. Under the management of A. F. Byrd, our able and efficient Superintendent, who has just recently taken the seat of office, we predict that it will be enjoyable, instructive and interesting in every respect.

We rejoice to say that Campton is furnishing a goodly number of school teachers this year. All who have schools have commenced, and report everything flourishing, the banners waving triumphantly with large numbers of the young minds being taught how to "shoot" under the shining folds—or under their instructions. It does seem rather strange though to see the young men come "tottering" in every Friday evening. There must be something here wondrously attractive and drawing to them besides "home, sweet home" if we know a windmill when we see it in operation. The maintenance of law and order, the elevation of manhood and citizenship, and a higher standard of civilization for future days depend largely on the young minds that are instructed in the school rooms; and the teachers should ever bear in mind that they have a great and noble work to perform and an important mission to fill.

THE STORMY PETREL.

Queer Superstitions of Old Sailors About the Bird.

One of the best known of the sea birds is the stormy petrel. It is often seen during storms flying above the waves in search of the shellfish and other small animals that are brought to the surface by the tempest, says St. Nicholas. The sailors call petrels "Mother Carey's chickens," and do not view them with much favor, owing to their being constant companions of storms. "Jack" thinks that rough weather may be expected when he sees petrels about and is not quite sure that they do not in some way cause the tempest. When the bird is on the lookout for its prey it seems to walk on the water. Hence the seamen of olden time, in allusion to the Apostle Peter's walking on the water, called the bird petrel, from the Latin Petrellus, "Little Peter."

So far from the sailor being superstitious as to the capture of another kind of petrel, the cape pigeon, which is of black-and-white color and about the size of a tame pigeon, I have known "Jack" to take a hand occasionally in capturing them as a bit of recreation during a dog-watch.

In southern latitudes the cape pigeons follow a ship in thousands. A common bottle cork is tied to the end of a piece of thread and trailed astern so that the cork touches the water. This gives the required tautness to the thread.

As the birds fly in clouds from side to side astern of them constantly strike the thread with their wings and the resistance is enough to turn them over it, when the thread is wrapped around the wing and the bird is hauled on board. In this manner I have seen hundreds caught in a day.

On one occasion a clipper ship carrying passengers to India captured pigeons by hundreds and the surgeon by some mischance succeeded in entangling a stormy petrel.

Now, the doctor was an enthusiastic naturalist and what to the sailors is known as a "land-lubber"—that is, he was on his first voyage. The doctor at once took the specimen to his cabin and made preparations to skin and preserve it. In hot haste a deputation of seamen, headed by the old gray-haired sail-maker, came aft with a request that the petrel be set at liberty, saying that otherwise the ship and all on board would surely suffer.

The doctor, somewhat surprised, intended to set the bird free, but his enthusiasm as a naturalist prevailed over the superstitious warning, and when the sailors had disappeared the bird was added to his collection. The fact soon became known forward among the men and the doctor was regarded with black looks by the crew for the remainder of the voyage.

In the course of time the good ship anchored in the Hugli river and that day at dinner the doctor suddenly died.

There was a gathering of the sailors around the windlass that dog-watch and the doctor's sudden death was attributed by the superstitious sailors to his slaughter of the stormy petrel.

SOME SMART KIDS.

PARENT—"What is the difference between the regular and the irregular Greek verbs?" Tommy—"You get twice as many likings learning the irregular ones."

VISITOR—"Don't you wish you had a little brother, Bobby?" Bobby—"Well, long about peach time. I think one little boy in a family is enough; but, long about spanking time, there ought to be two of us."

AMY ASHLEAF (crushing the next-door little girl with the display of her knowledge of style)—"When you eat yer meal at noon do you call it dinner or supper?" Tossie (of the alley tenement)—"We call it lucky."

SAFETY IN DISCREPANCY—Johnnie, of Chicago—"Pop, how far is New York from here?" Father—"About a thousand miles." Johnnie—"I guess that's why New York talks about us so loud and mean."—Detroit Free Press.

PURCHASE MAIDEN AUNT (trying to amuse Kate, who has come to spend the day)—"Oh, see pussy washing her face!" Infant (with scorn)—"She's not washing her face. She's washing her feet and wiping them on her face."

MATCHES AND MATCHES—Johnnie—"Mamma, I heard the preacher say today that matches were made in Heaven. Is it so?" Mamma—"Of course. Why not?" Johnnie—"Well, I don't see any use for matches. There's no night there."

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

A THREE-EYED girl of rare beauty is said to be a coming sensation in Europe.

A WONDERFUL pig is owned by J. W. Garrison, of Flat Creek, N. C. It has two heads, two tails, three eyes and six legs.

AT Buchanan, Ga., W. A. Keith found a stone of the blue flint variety in the heart of a solid pine tree.

A SHARK in Florida waters recently undertook to swallow a four-hundred-pound turtle, tail first, but after getting his prey down as far as the forward flippers was obliged to disgorged.

A BREAK in the main water pipe in a street in Tonolowhee, A. T., was found to have been caused by the roots of a tree, which had grown around the pipe and crushed it so that it burst.

Put Out in Just Ten Seconds.

Our citizens to the number of two or three hundred gathered on the burnt district here, on last Monday afternoon at two o'clock, to witness the exhibition made by the Cincinnati Tin and Japan Fire Extinguisher Co. The test was given under the personal supervision of Mr. Herman B. Walls, president of the company, of Cincinnati, and Mr. W. V. Snyder, the local agent, of Georgetown, Ohio, and was satisfactory in every respect, clearly demonstrating the Stempel Extinguisher to be one of the best methods yet devised or invented for the controlling of fire.

A structure of pine boards was built, and after being thoroughly saturated with coal-oil, a match was applied. The extinguisher was then turned on and the fire put out in about ten seconds. All who witnessed the test were thoroughly satisfied that the Stempel will do all and more than is claimed for it. The headquarters of the company are S. E. Cor. Sycamore and Canal Sts., Cincinnati—Winchester (Ohio) Herald.

"Oh, yes; I were the only witness there. Billy Lilly he was dead, you know, and that rattlin' Owen Caruthers he were the tither, and he were laid up with one o' his rheumatiz spells, that come on him sometimes by his takin' no keer o' himself. Pearce Ameron's mind were as sound as it ever were, certain and sure, and it kept so long as I see him to talk with him, if I'm any judge."

"Yet he told Cullen, several times, a month before he died, and in the presence of Cullen's wife, that he had no will, and that Wiley had persuaded him against it, saying as they were only two, both of age, they could divide the estate between themselves."

"Is that so?" he asked, in much solemnity.

"It is."

"Well, then, there's obliged to be something rotten somewhere. Pearce Ameron were a truth-tellin' man, all like me, he were not a perfeccor o' religion. If he said them words, he believed 'em."

"The diffident, Mr. Flint, is in establishing this. Cullen is dead, and could not testify if alive; neither can his wife. The law, as I told you, will stand to a will that is fairly made, but the law never lends countenance to and in my very jaws all the way down; and so when I got a man and knowed I could git it whenever I wanted it, I made up my mind I'd never take it when I see I wanted it too bad. Of course, I thought the colic or some 'nother case o' sickness. Well, sir, the rule have worked wonderful. It's a hard one at the offfstart, but if a man'll just drink to keep a stiff upper lip he can follow her. That's what I done straight-forwards. Many time somethin' happen and my jaws gits to a waterin' and a solid achin' for a dram, then I clamp 'em together tight, and I says to 'em: 'No, jess, you want it too searvices,' and so I let it go. It's the only safest-way to them that has a nat'ral strong likin' for the article. I'm not a denyin' that this very minute, seeh the ezgitemen to my mind, that I want one nother, and that strenuous;

"YOU WANT TO KNOW HOW COME I NOT TO BE A DRINKIN' MAN?"

but I'm too old to begin to break my rule at this time o' day in my life. God bless you, Gustus. You make 'em as good as I ever want to taste; but far you well, Gustus."

He bestowed a kind look of farewell upon the stranger, then, resolutely closing his jaws, came out, went for his horse, and rode away.

CHAPTER XV.

The most welcome of the few persons who visited at the house of Mrs. Caruthers was Rachels. Yet he seldom went there except when Owen was down with his rheumatiz spells, that had become more frequent lately because he had been in possession of more pocket money than was usual, and so was in condition to resort to drinking places other than the "Big Indian." Suspecting where such supplies came from, Rachels ruminated upon them. His uninvited kinship to the wayward cripple, not counting those of other kinds, had given rise to much gratitude in the mother. Her chief income was from a two-thousand-dollar state bond bearing eight per cent. interest. Her black woman, Sally, besides house jobs, for which the neighbors paid more than liberal prices. Then she raised more vegetables and got from the cow more milk than the family needed, and the surplus was easily disposed of. The cottage was on the street south of the Capitol square. It had a ground floor, on which were the kitchen and Sally's bedchamber. Above this were two rooms, a small parlor and another serving for both eating and sleeping. To these one ascended by steps leading from and along the street, fronting on a narrow portico, on which mother and son sometimes sat of summer evenings. From a corner of the rear room a flight of winding stairs led up to the attic where Owen slept. The place was kept scrupulously neat, even the back yard and the garden, wherein, besides vegetables, were fruit-trees and grapevines. Last of the few slaves once belonging there, Sally was devoted to her mistress and always ready to apologize for Owen's shortcomings. Whenever he was late returning home at night, she would tell his mother to bed, and, comfortably nodding the while, awaited him. On his return, she let him in softly, had something hot in the kitchen ready if he desired it, cautioned him against disturbing the sleeper, and, after he had been disposed of, went to bed and slept like a baby. Awakened at cock-crowing, she rose with alacrity, made her fire, had breakfast ready the minute it was wanted.

When Owen's rheumatism was upon him a couch in his mother's chamber was laid, which he accepted with more or less complaining during his confinement. Between mother and son had grown at last an understanding that prevented domestic strife. The latter's irregularities were never commented upon there, except between Mrs. Caruthers and Sally, whose excuses and palliations were wonderful. Heaven, the best consolation to the mother.

"Mistress," Sally said, "times, when Marce Owen or he are fotch home top-heavy, Marce Gus Rachels, it's because he doo wanted to git so. It's because he's 'fetched and can't hep it on dat sin' so mighty o'ra. Now, you know yourself it ain't, en you earn' deny it. It mosly when he git money from dat Mis' Wile Ameron; dat when it mosly air."

"Yes, and I wish the poor boy had never seen him."

"Ah, well, my miss, de Lord'll per-wide; de Scrip'tur say dat."

One night, after Owen had been in bed near a week, Rachels came in. A visit from him always gratified the widow and was flattering to Owen. He demanded and got a from a coquet, and so disposed himself as to appear a becoming object of sympathy. The visitor, well understanding his soft, feeble words of greeting, after shaking hands passed on to the fireplace where while mother was sitting, took a chair and chatted with her about several matters in the town. In a little while he said: "Miss Caruthers, if you would let me to have their opinion about the way old man Ameron left his property, and I thought I'd ask what you thought of it."

"Why, Mr. Rachels, I do think it's the very outrageousest and the meanest will that I ever heard of anybody's making; be they respectable or disreputable."

"But, ma'am," cried Owen, as if impatient at another of her oft-repeated expressions in the matter, "you won't consider that the law of the land lets everybody do what they blame please with their property when they've done with it themselves."

"So I've heard you say often, my son, and been told so by other people. But I can't help from having my opinion that it is a pity for a man to give a mighty high every bit of his property to one child, and him not a-deserving of it nigh as much as the other that's cut down to what in comparison is a little scrap."

"You are perfectly right, Missus Caruthers," said Rachels, turning a look of mild rebuke towards the couch.

"Such as that is a pity, and gen'ly it's founded on some sort of devilement, some 'ces; and it's another pity that devilement can't always be found out. People all over the county is disgusted with such treatment of Cullen Ameron, who was worth more than a cow-pen of the world's fair, and him now dead, but leaving a widow and child—Owen," and he turned directly towards him, "you ought to know something about that will business. You was one of the witnesses."

"Yes, Gus, I was. As for the old man Ameron not being in his sound senses, there weren't any sort of doubt about that."

"Nobody denies that; but the question is how come he to make such a will, and the question is what he done with it afterwards. Did you know what was in it when you signed it?"

"That I didn't, no more than Billy Lilly and old man Flint, not one rain."

"Didn't you never hear the old man and Wiley talk anything about it?"

"Well now, Gus," removing the coverlet from off his breast, "there's such a thing as a man gettin' to be particular in the way a fellow talks about anything that he wasn't expect-ed to talk at all."

"Owen, just right here, before just me and your mother, you might as well come down off that high horse, which it's no occasion for you to be there at such a time and on such a matter. I do know I'm after no meanness in trying to git you to say what you oughtn't. You've got to tell some time in the court house what you know. I can tell you as a friend, that never tried to tell you what you know, that your telling me what you know won't hurt you, and it may do good when it's mighty plain some good ought to be done if it can be done."

"Lord, Gus Rachels," he answered, with some scorn, yet showing that he felt that he was with his superior. "I'm on no high horse, and don't want to be. You know I know you're a friend to me—and ma—the best we've got; and I'm not afraid you want to get me into difficulties. I know monstrous little about the thing anyway—and—"

"What did the old man say to Wiley about making the will?"

"You interrupt a man that way, when I was going to say that I did happen to hear the old man say, one time, and not but one time, that if that Hannah Enlow, expected to get any of his property, she'd find herself disappointed. She might disgrace the family, he said, but she'd get nothing by it. He said them words, or some like 'em, one day as he came in the office room, what was I busy writing, from out the back room, where him and Mr. Ameron had been talking to-gather for some time. I don't think he saw me. If he did, he didn't notice, but went on and out. That was the day before the will was signed. That's every blessed thing I know about it."

When he came in the office with Billy Lilly and old man Flint, he just called for that paper from Mr. Ameron, and then signed it, and called on us to witness it, and then him and the other two, when the thing was over, they got up and went straight out the office."

"He left the will with Wiley, didn't he?" and you saw what was in it afterwards, didn't you?"

During a conversation on county politics a few days ago the question, "How is Thrasher Combs running?" was asked by one of the party. The gentleman addressed replied that he was as much a favorite as he always had been, and observed that there was not a man in the county could beat him. He went on to say that Thrasher was growing stronger and stronger every day, and told of one or two who had opposed him recently that are now for him. The editor of this paper was "a looker on in Venice," as it were, but he judges from what he has heard and from other evidence that he has since been able to gather that the gentleman who was doing the talking knows whereof he speaks. Indeed, he is one of the few politicians in the county who generally "calls the turn" in every election, and therefore an oracle whose observations have considerable force. On every hand we hear people say that Thrasher will win his race without a doubt, and we are convinced that he is the man. He is the nominee of the Democratic party for Sheriff of Wolfe county, and every Democrat in the county should give him a hearty support. Not only should he and every man vote in the county vote for him, but every one who should constitute himself a committee of one to see that the Democratic party vote is increased in his precinct. This action will insure the triumph of the Democrats in November, and Thrasher will be among the victors.

MORGAN COUNTY.

Editor HERALD:—We notice in the HERALD of last week a statement of Elder J. T. Pieratt concerning his reorganizing the church at this place, and that this was done by the officers and brethren of the church. The only reason he gives for this action is that the church had no book on record of membership. Now as Elder Pieratt's report is croneous and misleading, we submit the following facts for public consideration: At the time referred to by Elder Pieratt the church at this place had five elders and four deacons, and as to who invited him to come here and organize another church we do not know; but one thing we do know, that four of the elders, two deacons and the great body of the church knew nothing whatever about the matter until after the five had met and done their work. Moreover, it was announced that a certain colored minister would preach here that night, and very few except those who were "in the ring" went to church that night.

In regard to our record of membership, Elder Pieratt tries to mislead the public by stating that the record was the "private property of an individual." Now he knew very well that the record was kept by one of the undersigned officers of the church; viz: Asa B. Nickell, who has been an elder and clerk of the church at this place for a number of years, and a more correct and well kept record can be found in any of the mountain churches. Some members were misinformed about this matter, and when our clerk showed them a record of their names, they told him to let their names remain on the old record, and that they would have nothing further to do with the new record. In this record being kept by an officer of the church was the cause for a new church to be organized, new officers appointed, etc., why was it not done long ago? The same person has had charge of the record for many years, which Elder Pieratt also admits. We still have 209 members left in the old church, and as private as Elder Pieratt

...in believe our record...
...ent the names. We will fur...
...some of the members of...
...organized church had never...
...been members of the church at this place.

Elder Pieratt's boasting about their zeal for Christian union and apostolic teaching comes with poor grace when reduced to practice; for he well knows that the members of both churches now at this place believe precisely the same as far as the teaching of the Bible is concerned.

In the past different churches were established according to the differences of understanding of God's word, but at this late day, some preachers who don't like some other preachers will advise brethren of the same faith to organize a new church, and declare non-fellowship with their old body. Why claim a motto of peace etc. (Luke 2:14), and at the same time practice confusion and dissension. The motto of every Christian should be, I will comply with the Lord's prayer (John 17:20, 21).

Johnny Combs gave a lawn party last Saturday night and entertained a number of his young friends in a very enjoyable manner. Hon. JO. M. Kendall was present, and spoke in the highest terms of the occasion. He further said that he was satisfied that several cases of matrimony will date to that time. He spoke very "knowingly" and his conduct afterward increases my faith in his statement.

Quite a crowd of people, especially young folks from West Liberty, Hazel Green and other points, assembled at this place last Saturday to witness a match game of base ball, which was to have been played by the Booneville and home nines, but the Booneville nine did not come, and the people were somewhat disappointed. Our boys were in great shape, and a game was played with the second nine, resulting 26 to 2 in favor of the first nine.

"The world do move," especially the religious part of it. Last Sunday a few miles south of us was a meeting where a number of preachers, each one preaching his special doctrine, while a few miles north of us was the Baptist Association, where nothing but predestination doctrine was tolerated. Nevertheless, some of the preachers of the Baptist brethren had gotten outside this fence, and those inside declared nonfellowship with those who preach the false gospel. So there was quite a schism in the association. Hopkins was not there, but our "Little Joe" can keep him straight.

THE HERALD AND PUPIL.
We are authorized to announce that HENRY WILSON is a candidate for Sheriff of Wolfe county, subject only to the will of the people at the polls in November, 1894.

THIS PAPER is all home print, and if you want all the good things it contains you should read every article on each of the eight pages. You will find all the local news that way.

T. J. Stevenson sold his farm Tuesday to J. M. Stricklen for $750.

Mrs. Ellen Swango has been sick for several days, but is now some better.

Miss Mattie Quicksall, and Miss Lizzie Cox, of Mt. Sterling, are visiting at West Liberty.

Wolfe county teachers unite to make the coming Teachers' Institute a big success.

Prof. Cord and wife attended the State Meeting at Lexington this week, and will be home Saturday.

"Aunt" Sallie Trimble is again confined to her bed by illness, and Miss Rosa continues a patient, Christian sufferer.

Mrs. Rilda Day has our thanks for a basket of nice cucumbers and tomatoes, and they are the finest we have seen this year.

Mrs. Floyd Day, nee Ross Kash, and little daughter Golden, of Clay City, are visiting Mrs. Days' parents, Dr. and Mrs. Kash.

Wm. Cruys, of Red River, and Newton Lacy, of Lacy's creek, swapped farms a few days ago, and will move to their new residences soon.

John McGillaway, recently of Mt. Sterling and a gauger under the Harrison administration, is reported as mysteriously missing from his home in Covington.

The editor was on Monday morning pleased with a visit from Master Jesse Kash, who this week blossomed in his first breeches, he being just twenty months old.

Mrs. Ellen Kash requests us to announce that she will take boarders during the Fair, and give them the best the market affords at fair reasonable rates. Call and see her.

BOARDING—Mrs. F. N. Day desires to announce to the people who may attend the fair that she will be prepared to give them meals promptly and at reasonable figures.

Elder J. T. Pieratt will preach at the Bill Harst school house next Saturday at 3 p. m. and at night, and Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. He will also attend to the ordinance of baptism while there.

When in Hazel Green don't forget to call on J. M. Havens, the jeweler, at John M. Ross's store and have your watches, pins, spectacles, etc. repaired. All work guaranteed and prices as low as good work can be done.

Editor HERALD: Just closed our meeting at Stillwater; 40 additions to christian unity; a good meeting. I go to Holly Creek to hold over until after Sunday next. Expect a good meeting at that place. HOWARD.

J. M. Havens, jeweler, has located in Hazel Green and will be found at the store of John M. Ross, bringing your watches and fine jewelry to him for repairs. He is a first-class workman and guarantees his work at the most reasonable prices. tf.

The church of Christ held a good meeting at Bethesda in Morgan county last Saturday and Sunday. Elders H. H. Little, most generally known as Old Father Little, A. B. Tamper, W. H. Taulbee and Rudolph Gibbs were the preachers present. There was one reclaimed, and the people thanked the Lord at they had heard the gospel preached once more.

The report that the Wilmore net Band has disbanded, is a manufacture by a low down principled person. The boys practicing every night, and we ordered their uniforms. The band will be in perfect trim for Hazel Green Fair, and without doubt will be the leading attraction at Hazel Green, Sept. 4-7.—Morgan County Messenger.

FROM GROWING UP.
From Brenton, Kentucky, under date of the 17th inst., says he will be here on the 25th, and hold the Teachers' Institute on the 27th. He requests us to ask the teachers of the county to give the program, as found in the "Official Manual and Note Book for Institutes," some attention, asking them each to prepare a paper on some special topic to be read at the Institute. He says if the teachers will do this that he is confident they will have one of the best institutes ever held in the county. Prof. Cord is especially well equipped for institute work by reason of his large experience as a teacher here and elsewhere, and we hope every teacher in the county will do his or her utmost to make the coming Teachers' Institute one of the best ever held in the mountains.

A union meeting was held at Grassy school house in Morgan county Saturday and Sunday by Revs. John Adams, Frank Crouch and Isaac Murphy of the Methodist church, and Elder J. T. Pieratt, of the church of Christ. Rev. John Adams and Elder J. T. Pieratt preached in the forenoon on Sunday, after which a good dinner was served on the grounds. In the afternoon Revs. Crouch and Isaac Murphy preached to an attentive audience. They had a grand, good time, and every body went to their homes rejoicing. This is what they consider the true Christian union.

The following from the editor of the Mountain Evangelist is a handsome compliment to Hazel Green Academy, and one that the people here will appreciate:

GRAYSON, Ky., July 17.
Dear Bro. Cord: Command me and the pages of the Mountain Evangelist for all I am, and for all they are worth to advance the interests of the Academy. Your catalogue was something of a surprise, a pleasant one to me. While I knew there was a school there I had no idea it was so extensive or complete. Hurrah for the mountains. Your brother.

R. B. NEAL.
Will Tyler on Tuesday received a postal card stating that Mrs. Joseph Allen, Miss Tompkins Allen and Johnnie Allen are all sick, the former quite ill. Eli Williams' wife is also sick as is John Quicksall's wife. Mary Johnson, who has been quite ill, is slowly mending. They all live on Johnson Fork of Licking in Morgan county. Mr. Tyler and his wife, who was a Miss Allen before marriage, started for Harpers yesterday morning, so that Mrs. Tyler can be at the bedside of her mother, the first named in the list.

What is the matter with the mail? Our regular Cumnpton and Ezell correspondence did not reach us till Wednesday evening, though the former was mailed Monday and the latter Tuesday. Another communication from Ezell did not reach us until Wednesday, though mailed Tuesday, and two postal cards were delayed the same way. All of these were marked "misent." Who is to blame?

The number and quality of the horses at the Fair Grounds for training, indicates that the coming Fair is to be one of the best, or perhaps the best, that we have yet had. It is now known that some twenty-five or thirty horses will contend for the different purses offered by the Association, and the sport in this line promises to be exceptionally good.

Willie Alexander, John McDonald, David Conley and Robert Kidd, of Mt. Sterling, who have been engaged here for two or three weeks past in painting several pieces of property for Hon. W. O. Mize, left Saturday for home. And we will not be surprised if Willie finds his way back here frequently.

At Cost—Mrs. F. N. Day will close out her entire line of summer hats and trimmings at less than cost rather than carry them over, and now is your chance to buy bargains. Ladies' trimmed hats can now be had at from 50¢ to $1.50. Give her a call.

Jack Halsey & Co. are expected here by Saturday with their trotters and pacers, numbering about five head and they will remain till after the Fair.

Two ladies who are to teach the public school at Maytown this fall were the guests of Rev. J. W. Doane Saturday night and went to Maytown Sunday.

Samuel H. Hurst is now teaching on Brush creek, in Lee county. He was examined at Beattyville at the last examination and obtained a general average of 92 per cent.

At the request of those whose names seem to be connected with the article in your issue of Aug. 2, entitled, "A disgraced affair," I desire to try to put them in their proper light. We have nothing to say about the editor in this connection, because we believe that he related the story just exactly as it had been reported to him. But the reporter was not fully advised as to the facts in the case. The school and the "raid" being different affairs it should have been treated in a separate article, perhaps, unless the connection had been more clearly proven. On the 9th of July instead of the 6th, the trustees met and hired no teacher. W. J. Rose never resigned on that day, and never went to Campton and resigned at all. The two teachers never taught a week together but only taught one-fourth of a day. There was perhaps some one at Elijah Rose's house on Saturday night, and as to what he was doing, I have no way of public sentiment, wore out a varnain against him and two others, as shown by the affidavit published. Elijah took part of that affidavit back on the trial, and added some more to it. The men proved a very clear and conclusive and were acquitted. Elijah was clearly proven to be a man of very low moral reputation, which somewhat impaired the testimony on tending to establish a fact. Supt. Horton never deposed Miss Swango or any body else, but only decided that her control was not a valid one, such as entitled her to teach the school and draw the public money for same. His decision has been reversed by Supt. Thompson, and his decision has been appealed from to the State Board. AVIS.

The Directors of the Hazel Green Fair Association are requested to meet in this place on Saturday, August 25, at 1 o'clock a. m. A full attendance is requested as business of importance will come before the board. H. F. PIERATT, President.

VITIATED AIR.

Impurity of the Atmosphere of Steam-Heated Buildings.

In an article contributed to the Philadelphia Record by Dr. F. A. Adams, the inquiry is propounded whether the immense increase of steam-heated office buildings, in which the great majority of rooms have no adequate means for the removal of the air being warmed, may not in a large measure account for the prevalence of pneumonia among middle-aged men.

Many of these buildings, Dr. Adams says, are admirably constructed to keep out air, whether cold or not; this very perfection contributing to their insalubrity. In these hermetically sealed office rooms that abound in business buildings the steam heats the atmosphere to a delightfully comfortable degree, and the occupant breathes and re-breathes the air during zero days when an open window cannot be endured, the effect being to silently undermine his powers of resistance, so that when he goes forth, exchanging such tropical air for the keen breeze of unrestricted nature, it happens that, through some subtle change in his system which has robbed his lungs of their power of resistance, their capacity to endure the onset or transition is gone and the subtle poison of unrenewed air does its deadly work in the form of pneumonia.

TEACHER AND PUPIL.

The Frank Speech of a Reputable Scotch Professor.

A well-known Scotch professor was noted for his hot temper and vehement candor, as well as for his profound scholarship.

At the opening of a college term the boys observed that he was unusually irritable and harsh. The applicants for admission ranged themselves for examination in a line below his desk.

"Show your papers!" he ordered. One lad held his paper up awkwardly in his left hand.

"Hold it up properly, sir, in your right hand!" commanded the master. The new pupil muttered something, but kept his left hand raised.

"The right hand, ye loon!" thundered the professor.

The boy, growing very pale, lifted his right arm. It was a burned stump. The hand was gone.

The boys burst into indignation, but the professor had leaped down from the platform and had thrown his arm about the boy's shoulders.

"Eh, ladlie, grieve me!" he cried, breaking into broad Scotch, as he always did when greatly excited. "I didna kent! But," turning to the class, with swimming eyes, "if this lad has given me gentlemen to teach—who can ea' me to account when I go astray."

"After that day," wrote one of the boys, years afterward, "every man there was his firm friend and liegman. He had won us all by that one frank speech."

The change which fifty years has made in the relation between teacher and taught has been very great. The boy of the last century looked up to his master with the fear of the waiting lash, below all other emotions or motives.

The best teacher of to-day is well described by the words of a great German educator as one "who takes the position of an older kinsman to his pupils; climbing the same ladder as they, but a little higher up."

Right the boy who trusts his teacher as the trust of gentlemen is learning from him something better than Latin and Greek.—Youth's Companion.

SECURE JUSTICE.

How a French Soldier Brought About the Recognition of His Merit.

It is usually possible to secure recognition for real merit, but to accomplish this some ingenuity is required. A French writer tells a story of a French soldier, Chevert, who was as modest as he was brave, but who felt that he had waited for promotion long enough.

He had every claim to the command of a company in his regiment, but the colonel asked that the appointment be given to one of his regulars. Chevert went to Versailles and obtained an audience with the minister of war. This official said that he knew nothing about him.

"Very well," said Chevert, "simply write to my colonel and ask him to recommend some brave and skillful soldier for an important and difficult task."

The minister sent the message and the name given in the colonel's reply was Chevert. He received his promotion at once.

Chevert found an appreciative friend in Marshal Saxe. The marshal heard some titled officers speaking of their fellow-officer Chevert.

"The fellow rose from the ranks," said one, contemptuously.

These turned to the speaker and said, severely: "Sir, I always esteemed Chevert, not that I have from you that he rose from the ranks, I find that I owe him respect and admiration."

An Irish Ball at the Door.

That was a real Irish conclusion of the man, who, a trifle under the "influence," was attracted by the lights and music of a fancy ball and managed to slip in past the negligent doorknobs. Up he went into the ballroom, and planting himself against the wall fairly purred with delight at the loveliness around him—musical dancing, "fair women and brave men," all going merrily as a married bell. In a little while, feeling that he was hardly representative for such a month of unexpected pleasure, he pruned out into the middle of the floor during a brief all in the festivities, and tossing up his hat to the chandeliers, gave a bonafide "W-b-o-o!" and then, feeling happy in having done the graceful thing, he toddled back to his former position. Instantly the indignation "bouncing committee" rushed at him, and, clutching him by all available points, started to throw him out. The manifest injustice of this cruelty roused every convulsive nerve in his quivering body, and firmly bracing himself for best resistance as only a drunken man can, he growled out: "Ye're goin' to throw me out? Well, I come here and I'm not goin' away."—Washington Post.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumplik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minnesota. "I have sold the remedy in this city for over seven years, and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaint." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by John M. Rose.

What He Was Waiting For.

One of the best of "applause" stories is related of a singer who was exceedingly self-conscious—not to say intolerably conceited—who, at a concert at which he was to recite, handed to the German gentleman who was accompanying her at the pianoforte a copy of her song marked in several places: "Wait for the applause." At the end of one verse there came a dead silence among the audience. The accompanist laid not finger on key, but blinked pleadingly through his spectacles at the lady. "What are you waiting for?" she asked in an exasperated undertone. "I am waiting for the applause," replied the pianist, "and he not got yet!"—London Times.

On His Mind.

Blaggins is one of the men who speaks disrespectfully of eminent people. A great pianist was pointed out to him recently, with the remark: "Do you see the very expression of his face? He seems to have a great deal on his mind, doesn't he?" "A great deal on his mind?" repeated Blaggins, scornfully. "O yes, you mean hair,"—Washington Star.

September 1st, Last Day.

This date may not be the last day of all time, but it is positively the latest date that you can rent an Electroscope for two months for five dollars. All orders received on or before this time will receive prompt attention; all new instruments. Don't delay until the last day before making up your mind; take advantage of it right now. One of our patrons thus aptly expresses himself: "The Electroscope has cured me of neuralgia, indigestion and a complication of other ailments which had so completely wrecked my nervous system that my life was a burden. I have been sick for twenty years. I realize that the Electroscope is a propelling force in nature's storehouse for suffering humanity. It is nature's remedy, whose healing effect is so silent, so sure and yet so mysterious that it is justly termed the wonder of the age."

Fifty page book free, giving full particulars. Address Dubois & Webb, 309 Fourth Avenue, Louisville, Ky.

FOREST AND GARDEN.

VENEZUELA has milk trees. There are thirty species of tobacco.

PLANTS placed under blue glass will starve, because they cannot absorb carbonic acid from the atmosphere.

Prof. Doherty of the University of Pennsylvania has discovered that the flower carried by Juncus was the thyrus cluster of the date palm, not a fir or pine cone as usually translated.

WILLIAM R. SMITH, for many years superintendent of the botanical gardens in Washington, has it said, personally directed the planting of more than six million trees in different parts of the United States.

At Cologne there is a rose tree which is believed to be three hundred years old and has a trunk of four feet in circumference. California has one at Ventura which is now three feet in circumference at the ground. It was only planted in 1870 and now covers two thousand feet.

You can get THE HERALD for a year for only $1, and now is the time to start.

Kenneth Beazmore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The remedy is naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by John M. Rose.

A SNEER is the stiletto of conversation.

Kind words are "the music of the world."

GREAT minds have wills; feeble ones have wishes.

The manner of giving shows the character of the giver more than the gift itself.

SINCERITY, deep, great, genuine sincerity, is the first characteristic of all men in any way heroic.

It is the mother of many wretched children. They that do nothing are in the ready way to do worse than nothing.—Montreal Star.
